Bangladesh Society of Medicine

Bangladesh Society of Medicine (BSM) was formed in 1999 when internists needed to cluster on a platform. The Society was established to offer comprehensive care to people, ensuring the rights and benefits of medicine specialists, teaching graduate and postgraduate students. More than thirteen hundred members of the society are working together to develop the national health care at a level where people can get maximum services. We intend to ensure that the entire population has access to comprehensive medical care based on need rather than the ability to pay.

BSM responds to all national public health crises by rendering service to people and preparing national guidelines for many infectious and non-infectious diseases such as COVID, Nipa, Malaria, Dengue, Chikungunya, Filariasis, Snake bite, influenza, Kala Azar and many more. Society is also involved in national survey of many diseases i.e. non-communicable diseases (NCD) risk factor survey etc. BSM arranges regular nationwide CME programs and regional conferences at different regions of the country to keep the members and the community updated. BSM is always upfront in any issues regarding Internal Medicine specialists working in public and private hospitals and has played a pivotal role to create a large number of new posts in medicine in the government health services of Bangladesh in the recent past.

The BSM publishes a journal, "Journal of Medicine" six monthly. BSM organizes international conferences annually and members attend the conference regularly. We have a very close relationship with the American College of Physicians (ACP). The Bangladesh chapter of ACP has been established in 2015. BSM has had an intimate relationship with the International Society of Internal Medicine (ISIM) since 2005. We are proud that the representative of BSM is the EC member from Asia in ISIM. BSM is proud to contribute a lot to the health sector of Bangladesh. Recently two new societies have been launched named - Bangladesh Society of Acute Medicine & Bangladesh Society of Geriatric Medicine under the umbrella of BSM.
